PATROL RAILWAYS

Towns Between Evanston and Kenosha in Combine of War

THEFTS TOO NUMEROUS

Police of all Lake Shore Towns Will Patrol Railroad Tracks Daily for Thieving Vandavs and Tramps

The detective forces of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Chicago & Northwestern Railway companies have decided to form a union in an effort which is now being made to stamp out the gang of car thieves which has been working between Chicago and Milwaukee. In order to do this the companies will establish an officer in every station along the two lines.

For the past six or seven years the companies have suffered heavy losses from robberies of cars and the loot received by this gang has run into thousands of dollars. For some time the detectives of both companies have been at work, but the thieves driven from one track have simply tramped across the country to the other and started work anew. The officials have discovered that much of the loot secured in these robberies has been shipped into Chicago and there it found a ready market.

In the past two months Detective Green, of the Chicago & Northwestern force, has been working along the line and he has caused more than a dozen arrests in Kenosha alone. His work, however, has not had the desired results, as robberies are still being reported daily at the offices of the company. The gang of thieves seem to have little fear of the officials of the cities and the few arrests made by police officers in north shore cities have had no effect. It is claimed that the guilty parties are mostly tramps and they arrange to make their entire living by stealing from the railway companies. These men establish camps at convenient points between the two railways and work from both sides. Usually the thefts are of a petty nature, but in some cases reports have been brought of cars being broken open and a large amount of merchandise taken.

The new system will result in a daily patrol of the railway tracks, and in this way all suspicious characters will be discovered. The police officers of the cities along the lake shore will be asked to cooperate with the agents of the companies and it is expected that in a short time the jails will be filled with men charged with robbing cars. The railway companies will probably ask that the men in the employ of the companies be named as deputy sheriffs in the different counties, so that they will have all the powers of the local officials.

DOWIEITES UNABLE TO PAY THEIR TAXES

Treasurer of Lake County, Price, went to Collector Peckham's office in the Town of Benton last week, and there sat down after announcing his intention of awaiting the completion of the Benton tax books, Benton being the only town whose books were not turned.

He gone books. The reason given for the delay was that the delinquent list was so extremely long that it was impossible to hand the books over. Treasurer Price agreed with this when he learned that the delinquent list amounted to $13,873.34. This amount is out of a total of $37,909.46 levied and $3,574.23 represents personal delinquents. In the list of the delinquents are to found the names of some of the best in Zion, including John Alexander Dowie and Deacon Wilhite. The remainder are delinquencies concerns lots and lands.

There are two hundred and eighty names on the delinquent list all told. In former years Benton has been the first to have its books in at the treasurer's office, while Zion City has always paid up to the mark perfectly, there never having been a complaint before now. The delinquencies are ascribed to the present strained financial situation.

Rocky Ford Cantaloupes.

Twelve million six hundred thousand is the estimate of the number of the famous Rock Ford cantaloupes shipped from the Rock Ford district, in Colorado, this season. Seven hundred cars were sent out, as against 592 carloads the previous year.

One Quite Enough.

"They say," murmured Mr. McSoak, "that two heads are better than one, but I doubt it. If I had two like the one I've got this morning, blamed if I wouldn't commit suicide."

CHICAGO TO BE UNDER WAR SIEGE.

Naval Militia will Bombard the City, while 2,000 Soldiers Try to Defend It.

Chicago is to be bombarded by sea and defended along the lake shore in a great land and naval military spectacle, such as the western metropolis has never witnessed. Adjutant General Smith has this ambitious plan in hand. His negotiations with four other states, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin and Minnesota, made the project public. Thereupon he confessed to some of the details.

Four thousand men, about equally divided between the National Guard of Illinois and the Naval Reserves of five states, are on the cards to participate in the great sham battle, 2,000 sailors to attack Chicago with five warships while the other 2,000 boys in blue, with artillery, which will possibly be Battery C of Waukegan, defend the soil of Illinois from the enemey's invasion.

The warships would come from the five states, each of which has such a vessel. Illinois has the Dorothea. At Toledo, O., is the largest warship on the great lakes, and the other three states have smaller vessels. This project depends as to date upon the time to be set for the national maneuvers of the army and naval reserves of the states at Indianapolis in the summer, and will probably be not later than July.

General Smith's idea is that for one day, on their way to Indianapolis, the 4,000 troops and tars referred to can be gathered in Chicago for a great sham battle. The one obstacle is the expense, some of the states not having appropriate funds for bringing their vessels and sailors. The estimate of cost is $10,000, and as the sham battle would bring from 200,000 to 500,000 visitors to Chicago, it is believed the fund could be raised in a day.

WOMAN DROPS DEAD IN GROCERY.

Standing in Merchant's Store Waiting for Car Death Comes to Mrs. Garrity.

Standing in Merchant Brothers' grocery store, in Waukegan, where she was waiting for the street car that was to take her to Millburn to visit her son, Friday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, Mrs. James Garrity, of St. John street, dropped dead.

Mrs. Garrity was just starting for Millburn, where her only son resides, and was waiting in the store for the car that she would take her to Libertyville, and there transfer to Millburn.

While she was waiting she purchased a few things of Mr. Merchant, among them a little candy to take with her, and he was just handing her the change when she toppled and fell. He immediately lifted her, while one of the clerks ran across the street and called Mr. McKee, but before he got there she had died.

She was carried into Drew's undertaking establishment, where an inquest was held and the coroner's jury rendered a verdict of death from heart disease.

Mrs. Garrity was an old resident of Waukegan, having lived there many years. She way 62 years of age. Her husband has been dead many years. She leaves two children, George Garrity of Millburn and a daughter, Kathryine, with whom she lived.

DOGS OF WAUKEGAN TOO NUMEROUS.

Mrs. Lang of Market Street Shows Nerve When Attacked by Them.

So serious is the condition resulting from the great number of dows in Waukegan that women in some parts of the city are beginning to fear walking along the street because they fear they will be set upon by the animals.

Mrs. Lang, of market street, was walking north on the street when four dogs set upon her and for a time she feared she would be bitten by the ferocious beasts. She finally managed to fight them off, picking up a stick and using it to good advantage. Had she been some week, and easily scared woman, she might have encountered serious injuries.

The police receive similar reports from other parts of the city and they, like others believe that it is time something was done to prevent this condition of affairs.

It has been bad enough when the animals tear up yards and trample down flower beds but when they get to the point where, in bunches they attack women, then it is time to call a halt and do something radical to prevent it.

Addition to Washington Society.

Lieutenant Commander Count Albert Victor Gleischen, the new military attache of the British embassy in Washington, is a second cousin of King Edward and a third cousin of the German emperor. He is a bachelor, tall and soldierly, fond of society and useful in the drawing room as a man who can sing a song and lead a cotillon. Likewise he has a fine fortune and he admires American girls. He is in this country to study conditions and to write his impressions. He will set up a bachelor establishment in the Stoneleigh.

DOWIE TO FIGHT IN COURTS

Dowie and Voliva Cannot Come to an Agreeable Settlement out of Courts; Many Creditors Will Start Suits Against Dowie

With the peace negotiations between Dowie and Voliva at an end, both sides are busily preparing for the fight in the courts, and it is a question which side will open the battle. The arrest of Dowie before the end of the week is believed not improbable.

After a long conference Tuesday between Dowie and his attorneys, E. C. Wetten and P. C. Haley, the latter resumed his work of preparing the chancery bill, which will ask that the transfer of Zion's property by Voliva under Dowie's power of attorney to Alexander Granger be set aside as illegal and void.

The preparation of the bill, it is said, has been greatly retarded through the refusal of the present administration at Zion to permit access to the books and records of Zion City, and it is probable that one of the Lake county judges will be petitioned order the records opened to the inspection of Dowie's attorneys.

The stereotyped reports that Dowie was about to start for Zion City were circulated at the Aditorium Annex Tuesday, but the self-styled "Elijah third, First Apostle, and Moses second" did not leave his apartments. The bill for the week's stay of Dowie and his party, amounting to $280, was paid by Deacon Peters, and no intimation was given to the hotel clerk as to how much longer Dowie intended to remain.

A number of investors in Zion industrial stocks and depositors in the bank are clamoring to begin criminal proceedings against Dowie on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, and it is declared that 112 persons have signified willingness to take such action. One woman who is said to have invested $40,000 in lace industry stock on Dowie's representation that it was paying 10 per cent, created a brief scene at the administration building Tuesday by loudly demanding that Dowie be prosecuted. The lace industry, it is charged, has never paid 10 per cent, and such dividends as were paid to shareholders are said to have been taken out of the capital.

A special meeting of Zion's investors was held at Zion City and several letters similar to that read at the Sunday service, protesting against Dowie's methods, were given to them. The letters date back as far as 1902. A letter from Charles J. Barnard, former general financial manager, written to Overseer George L. Mason at the opening of the present crisis, reveales the causes of Barnard's resignation. He was unable to tolerate Dowie's illegal actions, and could see but one result of them, "the destruction of Zion." He stated that when the bank was founded he had prepared a typewritten list of rules for the institution, including a regulation that 25 per cent of the deposits should be held as a cash reserve, and that no more than 10 per cent should be loaned to one person.

These rules were submitted to Dowie, who gave them his approval, and put them in his pocket. He was the first violator, in drawing a check for $5,000 for improvements on Ben MacDhui. Dowie directed that a gold reserve be maintained, and when $5,000 of that metal had been saved he ordered that it be used to help meet a check for $7,000 which he had drawn in payment for books he had bought. His overdrafts, Barnard stated, amounted to $600,000.

VILLAGE ELECTION DRAWS LARGE VOTE

The Antioch Village election for the purpose of electing village officers was held at the village hall on Tuesday. There were two tickets in the field for trustees, which called out a large vote. The number of votes cast a year ago was 182, while this year 189 votes were cast. The following is the vote each received:

For Village Trustees—
- J. B. Burnett.....89
- John E. Sibley.....64
- W. S. Rinear.....103
- Sol La Plant.....58
- J. R. Cribb.....72

For Village Clerk—
- L. M. Hughes.....108

For Village Treasurer—
- L. B. Grice.....93

For Police Magistrate—
- Thomas Wilton.....107

LAKE VILLA RETURNS.

At Lake Villa there was a spirited contest for village officers, the strife being for village trustees and resulted as follows:

For Trustees—
- Frank Hucker.....38
- H. Potter.....38
- H. Nelson.....37
- Henry Miller.....35
- Eugene Wilton.....35
- Wm. Barnstable.....35

For Clerk—
- James Kerr.....47
- W. J. Sebora.....28

GRAYSLAKE RETURNS

At Grayslake there was only one ticket in the field, therefore there was no excitement. The following was the result of the election:

For Trustees—
- T. A. Reynolds.....38
- F. C. Wilbur.....35
- A. D. Buell.....34

For Clerk—
- D. G. White.....57

John Burns' New Clothes.

When speaking in London John Burns once had on a new suit which attracted the attention of one of the audience, who sneeringly remarked that agitation seemed to pay. So Mr. Burns told him how he came to get the new garments. It appeared that a representative of a famous waxworks show waited on him for permission to exhibit him in wax and also for the old suit he was wearing in order to make the presentment more natural. This the member of the Battersea was willing enough to part with, except for the fact that it was the only suit he possessed. An exchange satisfactory to both parties was speedily arranged and Burns had a new suit. Later an agent of a rival waxworks establishment came on a similar errand and another exchange was speedily effected.

NEW INDUSTRY IS FORMED IN KENOSHA

Kenosha has a new incorporated company, for on Tuesday afternoon a number of the prominent business men met at the office of attorney James Cavanagh, and organized a company to be known as the "Safety Railway Switch Company" of Kenosha. The company is organized with a capital stock of $30,000 and incorporation papers were filed with the Secretary of State. The incorporators of the new company are Harry Raymond, Edward Frandsen, and Julius T. Pabst all of Kenosha. The stock of the company is divided into shares of $100 each, and it is said that nearly all of the stock has already been subscribed for.

The company is organized for the manufacture of a safety railway switch which has recently been patented by Harry Raymond. He some time ago gained fame by his work in making a contrivance for utilizing ocean waves as a means of power but this second invention is claimed to be entirely practical and it is said that it will completely revolutionize railroading in the United States. The suggestion for the invention was given to Raymond by the recent railway wrecks which resulted from misplaced switches.

Models of the invention have been made and it is claimed that there is a great future for Raymond and his company. The device is a switch which is automatically locked and opened by the use of a third rail system on the railway. It is claimed that the rail is so set that a train moving at the rate of a hundred miles an hour will set the switch perfectly. Men who have carefully investigated the patent and have invested their money in the new company declare that the patent of Raymond is one of the greatest contributions ever made to railway equipment.

It has been shown to the managers of a number of railway companies and these men admit that if it can be constructed in a practical way it will revolutionize the work of railroading in the United States.

With a Raymond Switch the fear of accidents to trains as a result of misplaced switches will be entirely removed and added to this is the fact that railroad companies will be able to do away with a large number of employes now in the service to take care of the switches.

Just a Question.

A West African on a visit to England with a missionary society was shown a collection of photographs. "What is this," he asked, gazing wonderingly at one of them. "That is a snapshot taken during a scrimmage at a Rugby football game."

"But has your church no missionaries to send among these people?"

Total Abstainers Escape Gallows.

In answer to a query, Berry, formerly the English executioner, states that not one of the 500 persons whom he hanged was a total abstainer.

SHOULD COMPLY WITH LAW.

Village and Township Officers Should Make Itemized Reports.

The time is here when the village and township officers should publish their annual reports.

No law on the statute books is more specific as to official duty than the one requiering these reports to be published. There are few laws that have been so completely ignored.

The enforcement of this law would have saved Peoria thousands of dollars. Its enforcement may save other cities, towns and villages thousands of dollars.

Many reports that are published might as well not be printed. When a treasurer says he has received a certain amount of money, and paid out a certain amount to the school districts, he might as well not have published any report. If he says he has received certain amounts, and states when and from whom he receives them, then he has done right; if he states he has paid to a certain person a certain sum for teaching, or for work upon the road in village or township, then he has furnished a report which will enable the tax payers to ascertain whether or not he has been padding the pay rolls. A mere statement of an aggregate amount received and expended gives no information of any value to the public, and can be utilized to cover up just such crimes as startled the people of Peoria and have been found elsewhere.

In this issue will be found the township treasurer's report, the supervisor's report and the village treasurer's report.

QUEEN OF GYPSIES AIDS ZION.

Mysterious Woman Rides Post Haste to Voliva to Offer Her Services.

Who is Queen of the Gypsies? Why should she aid John Alexander Dowie or Zion City in times of stress?

Why did she aid the First Apostle one other time when he was in dire need?

What was she doing in Zion City last week?

The spectacle of a handsome, if gaudily dressed woman, leaving her place of residence in some unknown quarter of Chicago to rush to Zion City and offer her services, is not such an every day affair as to escape comment and when the Queen of the Gypsies was seen to go to Zion City, the flood of gossip was loosed once more.

She is a tall, distingue appearing woman flashing with jewelry. Possessed of not a little beauty, she bears herself imperiously and merits the title that is bestowed on her by guess work. If she is not the Queen of the Gypsies, she ought to be.

What she did in Zion cannot be learned. Perhaps as on a former occasion she came to the financial relief of the community and duplicated the alleged loan of former years, fifty thousands of dollars for John Alexander Dowie. All attempts to interview her or engage her in the most casual conversation failed and she left as much a riddle as when she entered it.

MANY CASES OF BEER DESTROYED.

Capt. Saville, of Fort Sheridan, Orders Every Bottle to be Broken.

A beer wagon loaded with fifty-four cases of beer bound for Lake Forest, while passing through Fort Sheridan Saturday morning was seized by orders of Capt. Saville and the driver placed under arrest while a soldier was compelled to break every bottle and let the amber fluid flow through the sewers. Owing to the condition of the roads just outside the reservation, this driver risked his all in an attempt to use the well kept roads through the reservation. He had got as far as the guard house when suddenly he was spied by the eagle eyes of Capt. Saville, who demanded of him: "What have you in that wagon?"

"Beer," the driver answered, "and I am taking it to Lake Forest." He then produced some papers, showing his word to be true, as the beer had been ordered and he was making the delivery. Capt. Saville could not be convinced, and immediately had the driver placed in the guard house and a private was told to destroy the beer, which was done. Later in the day the employer of the unfortunate driver appeared and secured his release and the end is not yet, for her threatens suit.

Croker May Visit New York.

There is good prospect that Richard Croker will visit this country soon to see the mausoleum that has been built for his sons, Frank and Herbert. The prospective visit has caused a renewal of gossip that Mr. Croker has been asked to come and unravel the Tammany tangle. This, however, is denied by John J. Scannel, who has just returned from Mr. Croker's home in Ireland.

Can't Lose It.

"Of course," said the optimist, "if a man gets into the habit of hunting trouble he's sure to find it."

"Yes," replied the pessimist, "and if he's so lazy that he always tries to avoid it it will find him. So what's the difference."

SET FIRE TO A DOG

Case of Extreme Cruelty to Animal is Reported at Bassett's Station

PARTIES TO BE ARRESTED

One of the Most Dastardly Cases Ever Reported in Kenosha County and is Unparalleled

One of the most dastardly cases of cruelty to animals ever reported in Kenosha county was brought to the notice of the agent of the Humane society Monday, and it will probably result in a half a dozen of the leading young men of the village of Bassett's Station being brought before the bar of justice, says the Kenosha News. The victim of the cruelty was a dog belonging to J. Nolan, a well known resident of the village, and the incident took place just after nightfall last Friday evening.

The dog is alleged to have been lured into a blacksmith shop, and after he had been covered over with turpentine, one of the men touched a lighted match to the hair of the dog and started him down the street. The agonizing yelps of the burning animal are alleged to have caused great merriment among the men. Nolan had permitted the dog to sleep in his barn, and after the dog had been set on fire he started on a bee line for the barn. Fortunately Nolan saw the dog coming and rushing out into the yard he caught the animal and plunged him into a ditch, extinguishing the flames. Had the dog reached the barn there is no doubt but that the barn and contents would have been burned and the loss to Nolan would have been a heavy one. Nolan declares that the dog was in no way at fault and that he was not a vicious animal, but simply a little dog kept as a pet about the house. He claims that the men connected with the outrage were all men old enough to know better, and that the ring leader in the gang was a man nearly 30 years old.

Such extreme cruelty has never been heard of in Kenosha before, and Agent Karnes has taken up the matter and will insist that the men be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. It is claimed that the men connected with the firing of the dog are among the best known young men in that section and their arrest will undoubtedly cause a sensation. The members of the Humane society will stand behind the agent and insist that the investigation of the case be a most thorough and far reaching one in order that none of the guilty parties may escape the punishment which they so richly deserve.

ROB WHILE THE VICTIMS SLEEP

Invading a house in which many were sleeping, three robbers carried a trunk out of a Tenth street residence, Waukegan, Monday night, emptied one room of the clothes that hung on a number of hooks, looted the place and got away without discovery and without leaving a single clue to their identity.

The list of booty they secured was $110 in cash, four watches valued at $100, two suits of clothes, two pair of trousers and one revolver.

The house is occupird by a colony of Austrians. They claim that the doors and windows were all locked that night, however, the unknown marauders got through one of the doors by the use of skeleton keys.

Going into one room the robbers took a large trunk into the open air where they could work and examine it with ease. There were two Austrians sleeping in the room, but neither heard the slighest noise. Then they invaded another room and removed the clothes. They then took all that they had gathered together and took it to a vacant building. Here it was that they went through the trunk and took away whatever of the contents they thought of value.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE EIGHTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

I do hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Representative to the General Assembly from the Eighth Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican primaries to be held on Saturday, April 28, 1906, and respectfully solicit your support. If elected, I do hereby agree to vote for the candidate for United States Senator who shall receive the endorsement of the voters at the primaries.

Mrs. Carrie Mason, known as the Amazon of Huntingdon county, Pa., was taken from Lewistown to Huntingdon in irons the other day and placed in jail as the result of a chapter of troubles over a mangy yellow dog. The woman's son found the dog and took it home. The owner tried to recover it, and the woman gave him a terrific thrashing. Constable Rogers then went after the dog and he also got a thrashing. Then Policeman William Stratford and Deputies Alton Fields and Arthur Field were sent with warrants for assault. When Stratford started to read the warrant to the woman, she hit him with a hatchet and cut off his right ear. The deputies then combined forces and overpowered the woman.

BREVITIES.

The International Association of Chiefs of Police completed its convention at Hot Springs, Ark., the other day.

The federal grand jury in Topeka, Kan., adjourned after finding four indictments against four persons for illegal land fencing and seizures.

Fire of supposed incendiary origin destroyed the business section of Rodesia, La. Five stores and the postoffice were burned, the total loss being $50,000.

Mrs. John Straub, aged 60, was murdered in her bed in Hamilton, Ohio. William Winterbach and George Vaughn, exconvicts, have been arrested for the crime.

A statement issued by the Equitable Life Assurance Society shows that 27,385 policies for $1,000 or under lapsed as a result of the recent insurance investigation.

Additional indictments were found at Buffalo by the grand jury which has been investigating the charges of graft in connection with the purchase of the armory site in that city.

Four persons were killed on the streets of Windber, Pa., in a clash between deputies and a mob of striking miners who were seeking to release from jail twenty rioters who had been arrested.

PRESIDENT IS HEARD.

Speaks Against Misuse of Muck Rake and Favors Inheritance Tax.

Washington correspondence:

President Roosevelt gave Congress and the country something new to think about Saturday. In an address following the ceremonies at the laying of the corner stone of the House of Representatives office building, speaking to a distinguished and composite assemblage, such as seldom is gathered aside from the quadrennial inaugurals, the President of the United States denounced the misuse of the muck rake as an obstacle instead of an aid to real reform and advocated a Federal progressive tax on all large fortunes which will prevent the transmission in life or by bequest upon death of those "swollen beyond all healthy limits."

Both houses of Congress were there in a body, together with most of the dignitaries and official Washington—the Supreme Court, the cabinet and members of the diplomatic corps. Society was represented by the wives and families of the President and others in official life, and the rest of the concourse was composed of knights of masonry and several thousand citizens from the ordinary walks.

The President spoke some plain things to Congress, and especially the Senate, which as a body the chief executive does not frequently have an opportunity of addressing in person. The scheme of seating was such that the Senate was literally at the President's feet, and the executive could have reached over the rail of the speaker's stand and touched the heads of Spooner, Lodge, Foraker and other leaders

"The Man with the Muck-Rake" formed the text for the principal part of the address, but in his attack on a certain class of sensational writers the President let be understood that he wasn't attempting a job of whitewashing. President Roosevelt proclaimed the muck-rake man was a useful citizen, who is dangerous only when greed for sensationalism leads him beyond the truth.

The very rich and the leaders of the labor world were not differentiated between when the President gave his attention to men and deeds of current interest.

"The liar is no whit better than the thief, and if his mendacity takes the form of slander he may be worse than most thieves," was one of the President's sentences.

"The effort to make financial or political profit out of the destruction of character can only result in public calamity," was another.

"Hysterical sensationalism is the very poorest weapon wherewith to fight for lasting righteousness."

"If the whole picture is painted black there remains no hue whereby to single out the rascals for distinction from their fellows."

"The foundation stone of national life is, and ever must be, the high individual character of the average citizen."

A graduated inheritance tax that would make impossible the conveyance intact of a tremendous fortune, such as that of John D. Rockefeller, to some other keen money accoumulator, who, with this gigantic aggregation of wealth to start with, could continue to add to the mountain of money and in turn convey it again to another with similar capabilities, was among the things advocated by President Roosevelt in his speech.

The President's speech was, perhaps, the most notable that he has delivered during the past four years. In some respects it is the most important. He took for his text the man with the muck rake of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress"—the man whose vision was fixed on carnal, instead of spiritual things—who typifies the man who in this life consistently refuses to see aught that is lofty and fixes his eyes with stolid intent only on that which is vile and debasing.

MEET DEATH IN PANIC.

Cry of Fire Causes Death of Three Persons in Chicago Church.

Three persons were trampled to death and a score or more seriously injured, some of whom may die, in a panic in St. Ludmilla's Bohemian Catholic Church, Albany avenue and Twenty-fourth street, Chicago, Saturday night.

Fifty girls dressed in white, taking their first communion, stood before the altar while the pastor, Rev. Michael Farnik, chanted "The Resurrection." The first part of the services had ended and the pastor had begun the second stanza of the chant, when the sinking of the floor and the overturning of a candle, followed by a cry of fire, sent the 900 persons gathered in the church into a panic and a wild rush was made for the doors.

Five minutes later, after a scene of the wildest disorder, wherein maddened men fought with screaming women and children, three little girls lay dead in the church, half a dozen women were unconscious, and one so severely injured she can not live. At least twenty others were severely hurt.

The cry of fire the police learned after a brief investigation was a boyish prank, no fire being in or near the edifice.

New Profession for Women.

Mrs. A. J. Dowling of New York City, who several years ago was thrown upon her own resources, has developed an occupation quite unique. Her card reads, "Services in case of emergency," and her business is to fit into any vacant niche where prompt and energetic action is needed. If unexpected company comes, she will see to the ordering of a dinner. She hunts flats, takes charge of houses or families in case of sudden illness, arranges for funerals, and hunts up all kinds of information for people out of town. She is always on tap for advice.

MARION'S BRIGADE

By MAJOR J. H. ROBINSON

CHAPTER XVIII.—(Continued.)

"I heard the sound of musketry not long ago," replied Kate, calmly.

"The idea has occurred to me, Kate Martin, that we were betrayed. I have had within the last hour strong suspicions. Yes, we have been betrayed; we have been routed; we have been hacked to pieces!" exclaimd Dix, walking across the floor, greatly excited, and stamping his foot to give emphasis to his remarks.

"You do not seem to be hacked seriously," remarked Kate.

"If I knew that you had fooled me!" returned Dix, striking his fist violently upon the table near which he happened to stand at that instant.

"Do you know anything of the fate of my husband?" asked Mrs. Martin.

"He's at liberty long before this time," muttered Dix.

"If I remember rightly, Capt. Dix," resumed Kate, accenting the title which she invariably affixed to the Tory name, "you said something about your power to protect my father."

"I did intend to do so, and my plans were all arranged," was the reply.

"What do you intend to do now, all your plans having so signally failed?" inquired Kate.

"Rally again—rally again; what else can be done Kate," he said, abruptly, after a short silence, "you know my feelings toward you, and I desire before I leave you, to know something more of yours toward me."

"What, before my mother?" asked Kate, in a playful voice.

"She has been young—the ways of youthful damsels are well known to her," replied Dix. "Time presses, Kate; I am expecting every moment the sound of Marion's dragoons."

"It were wrong to keep you waiting to hear a silly girl express her sentiments," rejoined Kate; "but I will speak them in part, that your departure may be instant, and that we may understand each other in all future time. My feelings toward you——" Kate paused.

"Don't be timid," said Dix, encouragingly. "You can whisper it in my ear, if you will. I only desire to know on what terms we are to meet hereafter."

"My feelings toward you," returned Kate, "I do not fear to speak aloud and openly. I do consider you, without any exception, the most contemptible villain I ever met with."

Kate uttered these words with a vehemence that left no doubt on the minds of her hearers of her perfect sincerity.

The Tory remained mute and motionless; surprise had stricken him a heavy blow. So deep was the silence that prevailed for a moment within, that the listeners could distinctly hear the quiet ticking of the mantel clock.

"Cheated—deceived—fooled!" gasped Dix at last. "This crushes me—it cuts like Marion's sabers. A thousand withering maledictions on woman's infernal arts!"

"You should have known me better than to attempt to win my esteem by creeping hypocrisy. I detest your person, your conduct, and your cause," retorted Kate.

"My daughter's sentiments are also mine," said Mrs. Martin. "And now that you know us, I trust that we shall see your face no more."

"I'm unnerved—the pang is sharp—but it is but momentary!" exclaimed Dix, struggling to gain self-control of his feelings. "You have served me cruelly, but I will remember it—and I will triumph yet! Though cut up and scattered, our courage is not broken. We shall gather again in greater numbers, and then you shall feel my power."

Dix gave greater emphasis to these words by striking his foot upon the floor.

"Hold—forbear—in the king's name! for the sake of humanity!" shouted Henderson, in a voice highly tragical and effective.

The parties started with surprise. Cyrus Dix recoiled to the wall and glared fiercely around him. But there was no time to waste; for steps were heard without, and the latch was hurriedly lifted. Dix instantly leaped through the window, shivering sash and glass, and by the time Henderson and Forstall gained the middle of the room he was heard galloping away.

"The bird has flown, gentlemen," said the pastor, with a smile.

"This is indeed a pleasant surprise," exclaimed Mrs. Martin.

"But a surprise, nevertheless," cried Kate, embracing her father.

Forstall was instantly introduced to the ladies, and Henderson warmly greeted by them. Frank confessed to himself that the pastor's daughter was exceedingly fair. After a few moments of conversation, such as the exciting condition of things naturally suggested, our two friends took leave and returned to the camp.

The following day the brigade marched back to Lynch's Creek. The name of Marion had now become a terror to all evil doers, and began to be spoken with admiration in all parts of the country, while he received daily accessions to his numbers. His daring deeds excited the attention of the royal army, and the British commander perceived that it was necessary, in order to the final subjugation of South Carolina, that his career should be stopped.

About this period flaming proclamations were issued, full of dire invectives against those who continued rebellious, and teeming with promises to those who submitted humbly to British usurpation. Those capable of bearing arms, who would not hasten to the royal standard, were to be imprisoned, and their property confiscated, and every militiaman who had borne arms with them, and afterwards joined the patriots, was to be immediately hanged, if captured.

In consequence of these documents, many persons were put to death, and many families deprived of their substance. But acts of this nature provoked the suffering people beyond endurance, and compelled many to arms with the firm determination to conquer or perish on the field of battle. Men stung to madness by wrong and injustice made excellent soldiers, and with such leaders as Marion, Sumter, McClure and Davis, could not fail to give a brighter aspect to the cause of freedom.

The British arms being victorious at Charleston and Camden, and British posts being established in various sections of the country, it was vastly easy for the Tories to show their might, and manifest their deadly hostility to the Whigs.

It was but a few days after Cunningham's defeat before he was again at the head of a desperate band of cutthroats, committing cruelties at which the heart of decent humanity revolts. But the "Bloody Scout," learning a little wisdom from past punishments, was cautious in its movements, fearing lest Marion should surprise and cut them in pieces in some moment unexpected to them.

One evening, a few days after the affair at Rocky Creek, a negro riding a fiery horse was brought into camp by the sergeant of the guard. He refused to tell his business to any one, but obstinately persisted to see Gen. Marion. When conducted to the presence of the officer he shook his head and looked at him incredulously.

"This is the general," said the sergeant.

"Dat am doubtful!" muttered the African, in a low voice. "Dey say he am mighty great man."

"Hush! Not great in person, but in deeds," whispered the sergeant.

"If you is de gin'ral, he hab communicated de nature ob de carcumstance," said Cuffee, bowing, and doffing his hat.

"I am; what have you to say, my lad?" rejoined Marion, in his usual mild and affable manner.

"Dis chile am bery particerler, 'kase de times am bery wicarious."

"Who sent you, sir?" inquired the general, somewhat sharply.

"Bery fine missus—one great lady, massa," was the reply. "I am de postoffice as she sent dis writin' by."

"Is it directed to me?" said the general.

"Am Francis de initial of your fuss name?" continued Cuffee, cautiously.

"It is," returned the general, with a smile.

"And does de letters of your last name begin wid a great M, and end wid a little n and a flourish?" continued the negro. "And, finally, massa, does de initial of dis place begin wid Lynch's Creek, and a pot-hook you could hang your hat on?"

"You have described it precisely," exclaimed the general, good-naturedly.

"Den it am all right. I hab de honor to present dis writin' to General Marion, who am arter de Royalists and de crown ob England, like the footsteps ob death when he takes arter de poor plantation slaves."

Marion took the letter and glanced at the superscription. The letter was written in an elegant female hand, and the chirography obviously that of a female.

"This is from a fair lady, then," he said, musingly.

"Her eyes am like de stars dat luminate de cannister of heben," remarked the negro, poetically.

"Indeed!" replied Marion, mechanically, opening the letter.

"It am fack, and dis chile know ob British ossifers who tink it am a privilege to kiss anything her white hand hab touched," added the negro, apparently not a little shocked and displeased at the irreverent manner with which he broke the seal of the neatly folded missive.

Without heeding Cuffee's last remark, the general proceeded to examine the contents of the letter. It was dated at Nelson's Ferry, and read as follows:

"General Marion—The wanton barbarities practiced in this and the adjoining districts by Cunningham and his ruthless band impel me to address one who has proved himself so ready and so able to punish the crimes of our sleepless and ever vigilant enemies. The inhabitants of this community are filled with unutterable dismay, for no one knows how soon it may be his or her destiny to suffer in the cause. The Loyalists triumph over us, and our ears are daily shocked with some new tale of woe. We look to you for aid, and feel assured that we shall not be disappointed. The name of your gallant brigade is already a word to make our oppressors grow pale, and let me add that your deeds are lauded by the fair lips of your country women, the brave are generous and the first to rebuke wickedness and injustice. Believe me, sir, our hearts will beat with joy when we hear the bugles of your invincible brigade. While the name of Marion is remembered with respect and crowned with honor, that of Cunningham will be loaded with obloquy and associated with the blackest infamy. With esteem,

"MARY VIDEAU."

When the general had perused this missive, he dismissed the negro, and sent orders for Job Dawson to come to his tent.

CHAPTER XIX.

It was quite late in the evening when Ben Rowan touched Frank on the shoulder, and told him that Gen. Marion desired his presence.

Our hero instantly complied with the summons, and as he entered the tent met Job Dawson going out. Frank found the general absorbed in thought, and an open letter lying beside him.

"I have selected you," said Marion, after a moment of silence, "to perform a duty attended with considerable danger."

Forstall bowed and the general went on.

"Should you consider the undertaking too difficult and perilous, you are at liberty to decline it."

"I accept it unconditionally, and without explanation," replied the young man.

"I did not estimate your courage and spirit too highly, I perceive," resumed Marion, "and I will come to the point at once. I wish to know what the Tories are doing on the Pedee, at Britton's Neck, and below there. Do you think you can, by any means, obtain this information?"

"I can try," answered Forstall, firmly.

"And I doubt not that you will succeed; but should the enterprise end tragically, I am sure I should deeply regret it," said Marion.

"I know the punishment due to a spy, general, but I am ready to incur the peril. Should I prove unfortunate, and return no more, I only ask to be remembered as one who tried to do his duty."

"That I can safely promise in such an event; but I hope for a happier termination of the affair. I wish, if you find it practicable, to learn what Gainey, Ferguson, Wemyss and other Tory leaders are doing, and are contemplating to do. If you fail, and the worst befalls you, my brigade will nobly avenge your death. Adopt such disguise as you think best, and may a kind Providence keep you from harm and return you safe to camp again."

Having expressed his perfect willingness to serve his country in any capacity, Forstall withdrew and made immediate arrangements to fulfill the wishes of his commander. While making preparations to perform the hazardous duty assigned him, it is possible he thought of Ruth Strickland, and entertained a hope that he should see her during his absence from the brigade.

"Are you going to leave us?" asked James Adair.

"For a time," replied Forstall.

"If you should see Rose," said the young man, "tell her that—that——"

"Yes, I'll tell her that," answered Frank, smiling.

"Inform Mary that the last time I saw Lewis Hawthorne he was well," added Adair quickly.

"Lewis Hawthorne again," thought Frank. "I wonder who he is?" and was about to ask respecting him, but Adair was gone.

Just as Frank was putting his foot into the stirrup to mount his horse he was addressed by Henderson.

"Not so fast, Mr. Forstall!" he exclaimed. "I've seen the general, and am to go with you."

"This is good news, indeed, for a long and perilous ride was before me."

But a short time elapsed before the two young men were riding away from "Lynch's Creek" toward the Pedee. The night had set in dark and rainy and the prospect before them was by no means a pleasant one. The parties proceeded several miles on their way without meeting with any adventure worthy of notice, but were not destined to be so fortunate as to reach Britton's Neck without incident.

They were going forward at a respectable speed, when they unexpectedly overtook half a dozen men on foot, armed with muskets. Had they seen them a moment sooner they could have avoided them, but it was too late to do so without exciting suspicion. The men stopped and faced about. Forstall and Henderson advanced boldly, trusting to their own resources to free them from the difficulty should they prove to be Loyalists.

SATISFYING THE CRAVING.

Public Demand for Statistics Moves the Editor.

Editor Evening Scandal—Gritz, here is a clipping which says the rice crop of India last season was over 300,000,000 pounds.

Gritz (assistant editor)—Yes, sir.

Editor—Chance for a splendid statistical article to impress upon the minds of our readers the figures of the crop. Reduce the number of pounds to grains and find out how many times they would go round the earth if placed end to end! how near the moon they would reach if piled one on top of the other; how many trains of sixty cars each they would fill; how long it would take two Chinamen with chop sticks, working ten hours a day, to eat it. And say, Gritz.

Gritz—Yes, sir.

Editor—Also figure out how many suicides there would be if all the boarding-house mistresses should feed boarders on nothing but rice pudding until the entire 300,000,000 pounds were consumed. Finally, tell what kinds of diseases are due to rice and how long the Russian army could have remained at Mukden if the Japs had had the whole Indian crop in their commissary. We must satisfy the public craving for statistics.—New York Press.

John Hay's Rare Letters.

There have been few better letter writers than John Hay. He wrote more nearly as he talked than any man I have ever known, and, as he could not talk in a dull or uninteresting way, so he could not write a dull letter. Some day, when time shall have made it not indiscreet to publish a compilation of his letters, they should be given to the world. They will prove to be not only an intellectual delight, but an inestimable contribution to the history of the time in which he lived and in which he bore so honorable and useful a part. It would be quite out of the question to publish them now, for they relate intimately to men now living and to public affairs that are still in process of evolution. Unlike many brilliant letter writers, he did not write with the obvious expectation that his letters would be published. He let himself go freely, as was his wont in familiar conversation, and the consequence was that he never wrote without saying something that the recipient of the letter would most unwillingly let die.—From Joseph Bucklin Bishop's "A Friendship with John Hay" in the March Century.

A Feminine Jab.

"I'm told," said Miss Knox, "that your husband, under the influence of wine at the dinner the other night, declared he had 'married beauty and brains.'"

FOR NERVOUS PEOPLE

A Michigan Mother Preserved to Her Family by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When the blood is impoverished the nerves starve and neuralgia or something more serious swiftly follows. Nervous people are generally pale people. By supplying through the blood those vital elements that the nerves need, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have performed those remarkable cures that make it impossible for any nervous sufferer to neglect them.

A recent case is that of Mrs. Peter Morrissette, of No. 315 Eleventh street, Alpena, Mich., who writes as follows: "My trouble started with childbirth. After one of my children was born I had a kind of paralysis. I was very weak and my mouth was a little crooked. I was always tired and was so nervous that I could not bear to hear a dog bark or a bell ring—even the little bird in its cage would annoy me. My heart fluttered a great deal and I had dizzy spells. I was not able to be left alone.

"My doctor gave me different kinds of medicine, changing it several times. When it was evident that he could not help me he said he did not understand my case. This was three years ago and I was very much discouraged, when my brother, who had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, recommended them to me. I tried them and noticed a change for the better when I was taking the second box. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me and I have been well ever since. I now do all my own housework, sewing and washing for seven of us."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also cured diseases caused by impure or impoverished blood such as rheumatism, anæmia and after-effects of the grip.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or the remedy will be mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Feminine Attraction.

Dolly—Yes, the prettiest girl in our Sunday school sold kisses at 99 cents each to help along the church fair. Somehow the young men were shy about taking them at that price.

Dick—No wonder. You must have been trying to attract the girls. Young men are not looking for 99-cent bargains.—Chicago News.

To Clean a Carpet on the Floor.

Sweep the carpet thoroughly, then sprinkle with corn meal or coarse salt and sweep again. Dissolve a bar of Ivory Soap in three gallons of water, and with a sponge or soft brush, go over the carpet. Rinse in the same way with clear, warm water and let the air pass through the room until the floor is dry.

WAS REALLY A HUMAN BEING.

A Story Showing How Much Depends on the Point of View.

The story is told in China that years ago a missionary made his appearance upon a platform there and that the native orator who introduced him closed with these words:

"When I have finished a gentleman from the West is going to address you. He is not a foreign demon. His appearance and his clothing may seem strange to you, but look carefully at him. He has two arms and two legs, two ears and two eyes, a nose (though a long one!) and a mouth; and I assure you his teeth are made of bone, just like yours. He is really a human being, and I hope you will regard him as such."

LETTER FROM UTAH

Mormons Compared With Zionites by a Former Antioch Man

MANY GHANGES IN A DAY

The Commercial Prosperity is a Certainty, Though "Frenzied Finance" Has Not Yet Arrived There

There is little doubt that Salt Lake City will some day be a city of great importance; its location and environments point definitely to this. It is situated in a valley of the Wasatch mountains, where looking east, north, or south one sees nothing but snow capped peaks, while to the west the Great Salt Lake is visible, about eighteen miles distant.

Ensign Peak is a notable spot to the north, where the Mormons raised their flag upon their arrival here. It is claimed by some that they selected this location because they were unable to travel further. In the clear atmosphere the flag pole can be plainly seen from a distance of twenty miles.

The Mormons are a people very similar in their actions and beliefs to the Zionites. The Mormon institution, as organized by Brigham Young, however, was established on a sound financial bssis and will endure for all time. The people are loyal to their church and have some cause to be, as they have only to comply with certain rules, which do not make slaves of them. Every manner of business is conducted by the church, and as far as can be learned, upon an honest and just basis. They still continue the practice of issuing script, which is good for its face value at any of the Mormon institutions. A tax, called tithe, of ten per cent of their income, is levied upon every member, and is for the most part assiduously paid. They are averse to secret societies of all kinds, but the church is one of the most secret organizations in existence. The temple is the high degree of the church. There are certain rules and requirements necessary before a Mormon follower can be admitted to the Temple Circle.

No protestant ever sees the inside of the Temple and I am told that President Roosevelt was denied the privilege of looking upon its interior decorations, which are said to be elaborate and beautiful. In another letter I will relate the history of the building of the magnificent edifice, which is really an imposing structure, grand and massive in its outward appointments.

This is a peculiar country during the months of February and March. The weather is subject to sudden changes. One night last week when I was out for a stroll the moon was shining brightly and the air was pregnant with the balmy quality that engenders "Spring Fever" Imagine my surprise when I awoke in the morning at finding that about ten inches of snow had fallen during the night. By noon, however the snow had disappeared and the water was roaring through the gutters. One Sunday, not long ago, we had spring summer, autumn, and winter in the course of a single hour. A man who recently arrived from Pittsburg wrote out a list of the wardrobe required for that single hour. Here it is: Heavy overcoat, light overcoat, rain coat, light suit, heavy suit, woolen underwear, summer underwear, woolen socks, cotton socks, fur cap, felt hat, straw hat, wool mittens, heavy lined gloves, light kid gloves, umbrella, overshoes, rubbers, rubber boots, heavy shoes and low shoes.

In this climate these sudden changes do not seem to have the same effect that they would in Illinois. Such freakish weather would keep all your doctors and undertakers on the go. But here influenza and grippe are unknown. There is some small pox, but fatalities are few from its effects and there is little difficulty in keeping it under control.

The swift gaited eastern enterprise has not taken here as yet, and though commercial prosperity is a certainty, there is no rushing and running about in an excited frenzied manner, No one hurries, but every one takes their time and every body else's as well. It is a much more comfortable way of transacting business.

There are plenty of liars here You do not meet them in a business way but in general conversation. They have the western habit of telling unbelievable stories of adventure and etc., as a means of entertainment. I am gathering together some early day stories which I will send at some future time.

My next letter will be devoted to a comparison of the Zion church with that of the Latter Day Saints, which is the real name of the Mormon church.

For Bright Eyes.

Bathing the eyes several times a day in cold water makes them bright, and greatly helps to preserve the sight to extreme old age. When any substances get into the eye, syringe gently with lukewarm water till free of them.

The Central South

The abode of Soft Winds, Persistent Sunshine and Gentle Rains; the land of Beauty, Happiness, Flowers, Contentment and Health.

The Territory served by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, stretching from the Ohio River to the Gulf.

Throughout this wide area fertile land is yet to be had at—from a Northern standpoint—VERY LOW PRICES.
From some of this land an average of $116.95, net, was made last year on Strawberries. From Cantaloupes $250.00.
Peaches, Apples, Grapes, return handsomely. Cattle need but little winter feed.

QUEER DOINGS OF CANTONESE.

Burning of Rice-Paper Prayers Head Off Evil Spirits.

Just at night, if you happen to be within the gates of Canton, you will witness one of the little performances that is supposed to deceive the prowling spirits of the night bent upon evil intent, the while conciliating them should they penetrate the deception, says the Chautauquan. Each little and big shop possesses a miniature fireplace built into the side of the entrance. Prayers, printed on rice paper, form the fuel with which to offer up incense to the "bogy man," who is supposed to make the nocturnal visits.

Beholding the smoke, he is supposed to assume that no one lives within and therefore passes by, but should he "catch on" and stop to investigate he finds that the prayer papers on the altar bear inscriptions attributing to him such virtues and magnanimity that his wrath is appeased and he turns from his evil intent.

Better in Berlin.

In the March issue of the Technical World Magazine Fritz Morris describes the ingenious automatic restaurants which have recently been introduced in Berlin.

"Cabinets with glass fronts line the walls," Mr. Morris writes, "and through these glass fronts are to be seen rows and rows of little elevators, with the slots and mechanism for working them. On one side of the restaurant is fitted an 'automat' bar, where, by dropping the indicated price into the proper slot, the wished-for drink comes to the waiting customer. Shelves, all around, on the little elevators, bring up hot soups, hot roasts, cold meats pies, sandwiches, tea, coffee—in fact, whatever is on the menu, and that is changed daily. All the customer has to do is to decide what he wants, drop his coin in the little opening and await results. In less than a minute, up comes his meal, raised by electricity from the kitchen in the basement, and it comes either steaming hot or ice-cold, just as ordered, and clean, fresh, and sweet, with no dirty-handed waiter, with black cuffs and greasy napkin, to take your appetite away while handing it to you."

Jiu-Jitsu Long Known in Europe.

A French teacher of boxing points out that an art of self-defense approximately equivalent to jiu-jitsu was known in Europe in the seventeenth century. Its principles are expounded in a work by one Nicolas Peters, published at Amsterdam in 1674, and bearing the lengthy explanatory title: "The Art of Wrestling, and how one can protect oneself in all kinds of quarrels that may occur; how one can with agility and rapidity repel all unfair attacks and meet one's adversary with science." The work is illustrated. The author apparently anticipated many of the characteristic grips of the Japanese exponents of to-day.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Delaware's agitation for the execution of criminals by electricity is regarded as another blow at Mr. Addicks.

Speaker Cannon insists that a man is only as old as he feels when it comes to the question of a presidential nomination.

Speaker Cannon is now trying the difficult feat of sitting on the lid of the tariff barrel and the pork barrel at the same time.

It now remains to be seen whether the Czar will dissolve the radical parliament or whether the radical parliament will dissolve the Czar.

Congressman Rainey says that tariff revision is sure to come in this country. Speaker Cannon was unkind enough to add something about the mellenium and recognized fixtures.

It is being suggested that we should donate the Philippines to King Alfonso as a wedding present. But after all Spain has never done anything to us to warrant such harsh treatment.

The head of the Buddhist church, who recently lectured in Washington was good enough to say that Christianity would answer the purpose in the absence of anything better in this country.

As the coal miner, the operator and the retailer are all claiming that they are starving to death, it suddenly occurs to us that it must be the consumer who is making all the money out of the present strike.

Jim Howard now having been sentenced for life for shooting Gov. Goebel, need have no hesitation in expressing his opinion of the jury that convicted him. There will be no chance for contempt proceedings.

It would take a prophet to tell when there is going to be a vote on the rate bill At the same time a vote is assured, and the mere fact that there will be a vote and legislation is enough to make it certain that the name of Theodore Roosevelt will rank high in the list of presidents who have really done things. Opponents of the President and opponents of rate legislation of all sorts have pointed to the practical assurance of a court amendment as an indication that the President has been defeated in his fight for remedial legislation. Such critics have short memories. It will be easily recalled that only a fortnight before the session opened, rate legislation of any sort was scouted by many people as an "irridescent dream" or something of that sort. The session had hardly opened before it was found that the sentiment for legislation was so strong that it could not be denied. Then all the forces of the opposition were turned to making the legislation of as little effect as possible. The most that any of them have succeeded in doing is to have a reasonable assurance of a court review provision that may hamper but will by no means kill the law. It is doubtful if the President yet realizes that by a coalition of the democrats and a few staunch republicans that he will be able to crowd through the Hepburn bill unamended. But this is not the case. The amendment will be tacked on by the Senate and it will be adhered to in conference. But the first fight will have been won and rate legislation will be an assured fact. There probably will be more drastic legislalion in the future. There certainly will be if it is shown that the coming law does not have the effect that the President intended. But the fact remains that the first fight is as good as won and if there is further legislation needed it will come just as surely as the rate bill is going to pass. This achievement is enough to assure the President's name a place in history, and historians will see to it that the honor is duly accorded. The present victory in the line of rate legislation will look a great deal bigger a decade from now than it does today.

The Los Angeles Gas and Electric company is erecting what will be the largest gas receiver in the United States. It will be 210 feet in hight and 210 feet in diameter and will hold 5,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

If you ever bought a box of Witch Hazel Salve, that failed to give satisfaction the chances are that it did not have the name, "E. C. DeWitt & Co." printed on the wrapper and pressed in the box. The original DeWitts Witch Hazel Salve never fails to give satisfaction, for burns, sores, boils, tetter, cracked hands etc. For blind bleeding itching and protruding piles it affords almost immediate relief. It stops the pain. Sold by J. H. Swan.

GEORGE B. STEPHENS.

George Stephens, candidate for the republican nomination for treasurer, subject to the will of the coming republican primaries, which take place April 28, is a native born Illinoison. He was born at Homer, Will county, November 15, 1848, and since 1853 has always lived in Lake county.

Mr. Stephens served several terms as president of the Millburn Mutual Fire Insurance Co., which was organized in 1855 and which is a strong local insurance concern.

He received his education in Lake county schools and since 1871 has been engaged in farming in Newport township. He has always been prominent in republican politics and served three terms on the board of supervisors, being elected chairman of that organization twice, serving as well as chairman of the Lake county board of review.

ANTHONY HOPE'S NEW STORY

"Sophy of Kravonia," Said to be More Thrilling Than "The Prisoner of Zenda," to Appear Serially.

Good news for lovers of stirring romance! Anthony Hope has written a new story in style of "The Prisoner of Zenda," and even surpassing it in interest. It is called "Sophy of Kravonia" and is to appear exclusively in the Sunday magazine of the Chicago Record-Herald, beginning April 22.

The mysterious country of Kravonia lies in the same romantic region of Southern Europe as Zenda, but the new story has no connection with that of the famous Rudolph Rassendyll. Its central figure is a still more interesting person—a courageous and beautiful heroine, who rises from lowly life to the throne. Sophy de Gruche is her name, and she loves the brave but unfortunate prince Sergius, as she proves in a series of most exciting events in modern fiction. Her trials and triumphs are due to the existence of two factions in the court, One is loyal to the true heir apparent, Prince Sergius, and the others seek to place upon the throne the little son of Countess Ellenburg, the King's morgantic wife. The conspiracy leads to many dramatic scenes, one of the most thrilling being that in which the old king discovers the guilt of the countess and drops dead at a moment when things are in a perilous condition for Sergius and his bride. How Sophy comes out of this turmoil of intrigue battle, tears and joy, Anthony Hope reveals in his own inimitable style.

The first installment of "Sophy of Kravonia" will appear April 22. On account of the great demand for this facinating story it will be wise to order your copy of the Sunday Record-Herald well in advance.

Curious Method of Fishing.

Very curious is the method of fishing followed by the Chinese in the Straits of Malacca. The fisherman lets down from the side of the boat a screen of white canvas stretched on wood. The shoal of fish mistake this for some floating obstruction and try to leap over it, with the result that the fish jump into the boat and are thus captured. This method is employed by Malays in their waters.

If a Cow gave Butter mankind would have to invent milk. Milk is Nature's emulsion—butter put in shape for digestion. Cod liver oil is extremely nourishing, but it has to be emulsified before we can digest it.

Scott's Emulsion

combines the best oil with the valuable hypophosphites so that it is easy to digest and does far more good than the oil alone could. That makes Scott's Emulsion the most strengthening, nourishing food-medicine in the world.

Devils Island Torture.

is no worse than the terrible case of piles that afflicted me ten years. Then I was advised to apply Bucklins Arnica Salve, and less than a box permanently cured me, writes L. S. Napier, of Rugles, Ky. Heals all wounds, burns and sores like magic. 25 cents at Swans drug store.

Under the Polar Star.

The bosom of the Eskimo Beau Brummel swelled with price. "I am indeed proud to-night," he remarked. "Lady Aurora Borealis, the belle of the pole, just called me a bird."

"And what kind of a bird might you be?" asked his rival.

"I don't know, but I suppose she meant a snow bird."

And this scintillating flash of wit was published in the funny column of the Midnight Sun.

Wonderful Diamond Necklace.

The gaekwar of Baroda, the Indian potentate who has been entertaining the Prince and Princess of Wales, can boast of possessing the most wonderful necklace in the world. It is a collar composed of five rows of 100 diamonds each, the whole set between rows of emeralds. Some of the stones are as large as walnuts and all of them are of the greatest purity.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the Republican Voters of Lake County.

After supporting and contributing to the success of the Republican party, for the past thirty years and never having held a County office, I feel I can consistently ask the Republican voters for their support of County Judge.

Fifteen years of active practice at the Lake county bar, leads me to believe that the duties of the office of County Judge require the entire time of the Court; and if elected to that position, I will devote my whole time to the office and the best interests of the people of Lake county.

Your support will be most thankfully received.

EDWARD J. HEYDECKER.

Primary election will be held on Saturday, April 28, 1906.

Polls will be open at 12 o'clock noon to 7 p. m.

Adjudication Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that the subscriber, administrator of the estate of Joseph Smith, deceased, will attend the County Court of Lake County, at a term thereof to be holden at the Court House in Waukegan, in said county, on the first Monday of June, next, 1906, when and where all persons having claims against said estate are notified and requested to present the same to said court for adjudication.

Chronic Bronchitis Cured.

"For ten years I had chronic bronchitis so bad that at times I could not speak above a whisper," writes Mr. Joseph Coffman, of Montmorenci, Ind. I tried all remedies available but with no success. Fortunately my employer suggested that I try Foley's Honey and Tar. Its effect was almost miraculous, and I am now cured of the disease. On my reccommendation many people have used Foley's Honey and Tar and always with satisfaction. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Humor in the Wrong Place.

"Everytime I see this picture of the late Speaker Michael C. Kerr of Indiana," said Congressman Campbell of Ohio, "I am reminded of an old friend of an old friend of mine who worked on a Boston newspaper. This man was the telegraph editor and was possessed of one of those queer streaks of humor, which he always used at the wrong time. When the story of Speaker Kerr's death came into the office my friend wrote this headline over the story: "'From gavel to gravel.' He lost his job the next morning."

IMPROVE HIGHWAYS

Eternal Vigilance an Important Factor in Improving Highways

DUTY OF COMMISSIONERS

Neglecting Them Causes Most of the Trouble--Best Use of Road Machines--Where Shade Is Helpful

The late J. Q. Sanford, state highway commissioner of Vermont, was insistent on the maintenance of the roads, says Good Roads Magazine, and in one of his last circulars to the local commissioners he said:

The great roadmaster John L. Macadam said, "A good road is an artificial floor, forming a strong, smooth, solid surface, capable of carrying great weight and over which carriages may pass without impediment." In building roads we strive to approximate this ideal.

A high authority on road matters recently said, "The time to begin road repairing is the day the road is finished." If good roads are maintained there must be eternal vigilance. Keeping everlastingly at it is the only way. Roads deteriorate constantly and sometimes rapidly when left alone. It is neglecting the roads that causes most of the trouble. How seldom do we see any one upon the roads doing small work to prevent greater.

We should get away from the old notion, rather habit, of working the roads once a year. We have repeatedly recommended that road commissioners appoint men in various parts of the town, each to care for a section of road and doing the slight work which, if done at the right time, saves the road and keeps it good. The proposition has been misunderstood, some taking it to mean that each appointed man was to maintain and work his section of road in his own way. Not so. The road commissioner is the man of authority throughout the town, and he should direct road affairs in every part of the town at all times. As he cannot be everywhere present, he should exercise his will through others who will do his bidding for the pay and encouragement they receive.

Too much dependence is placed upon the road machine in maintaining the old worn-out roads. Often there is more injury than benefit resulting from its use, and there is increasing complaint from the public over the poor returns for the expense. Roads are becoming narrow, the shoulders destroyed, depressions made where water stands to fester and destroy. A good deal is done with the machine that is harmful. Its best use is on the good roads to keep them good. They should frequently be lightly dressed over, always when the road is wet. It saves a lot of good material that is working down into the ditches; it fills the ruts and depressions and keeps the road in good form. The best time for shaping earth roads with a machine is in the spring, while the ground is plastic and easily worked. As a rule, when the earth has become settled, hard and firm the roads should not be broken up. It requires great force to do this in mid-summer, and when broken up they will not be so well settled again that year, the broken service being dust or mud, according to the weather.

The law requiring road commissioners to remove loose stones from the road once a month is wrong. No road should be neglected for a month. The loose stones are a nuisance and should be removed as often as they appear. Tight stones that project above the road surface should be broken down to the even surface with a heavy hammer.

Mudholes are too common, and there is no excuse for their being. They come by growth, which should be prevented. Sand roads are benefitted by shade to conserve moisture and keep the road from drying out. Roads of other material need sunlight and air to dry the surface quickly. The borders of a road should be kept well trimmed, and in doing this cleanliness and roadside beauty should be regarded. There is value in our roadside attractions, and beauty costs nothing. A little care and arrangement in what we do will give pleasure to all who pass that way.

Since the rural people are cultivating more of the aesthetic side of life and others of culture, refinement and wealth are establishing their homes in the country, road officials should at least preserve the natural attractions and beauty of the roadsides.

Oregon Coal Mines.

Coal mining has been followed in Oregon for the last half century. It was one of the very first sections of the great mineral West to open up a productive coal mine. These mines, located near Marshfield, on Coos bay, are still producing. As early as 1855 the mines of Coos bay shipped their coal by schooner to San Francisco. These mines are still beyond reach of the railroads and are still shipping by water; however, the output, which was then 50,000 tons yearly, has increased to more than five times that amount.

Coal in the Philippines.

The Filipino as a miner will be a novelty. He has been importing his coal from Australia and Japan. But enough coal has now been discovered in the island of Batan of the Philippine group to supply the army, the navy and the insular government with 200,000 tons a year for 348 years. The coal has been tested on some of the interisland transports and promises satisfaction.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Wallows.

Skippers who have been interviewed on the subject of the disaster which happened to the Campania recently attribute it to the fact that the liner must have got into what is known in nautical language as a "wallow." This, it appears, is caused by one big wave following another before the ship has time to recover from the shock of the first. These "wallows" are said to be of sudden and unaccountable occurrence, but fortunately they are experienced very rarely. One instance is recalled in which a vessel suffered so badly from this kind of visitation that she had to return to port in a badly battered condition, and the officers turned up suddenly at home like apparitions, to the consternation of their families. In another case an Atlantic liner was suddenly "pooped" and it was estimated that a volume of water about twenty feet thick fell upon the after deck, flooding many of the rooms up to the ceiling and penetrating in all directions.

Railway Employes.

In the service of the railways of the United States to-day more than a million and a quarter of men are employed. Of this multitude 52,451 are engine men, 55,000 are firemen, 40,000 are conductors. The number of engines in active use is 47,000, the number of passenger cars 40,000, and of freight cars 1,760,000. These cars and engines, if placed in line, would half encircle the globe.

Studying the Sun.

Two distinct organizations, both composed of men eminent in science, are studying the sun with extraordinary care. One, the Solar Commission, established in 1903, is devoting its researches to the effect of the sun on the weather and climatic changes of the earth. The other, the Solar Union, formed in 1904, is endeavoring to ascertain more than is now known about the sun itself. Both are European associations.

The New Croton Dam One of the Wonders of the World

Larger than Three Greatest European Dams Combined—The Great Croton Lake—Masonry Dams of Comparatively Recent Origin.

The dam just completed which is to add 34,000,000,000,000 gallons of water to New Yorks city's water supply, is the largest dam in the world. We have heard a great deal of the Assuam dam in Egypt, built to control the irrigating floods of the Nile, but the Assuam is more of a dike than a dam, and though longer than the Croton dam its height is but 70 feet to the 301 feet of the other.

England has the notable Vryny dam, France the Furens, Belgium the Gileppe, the three great dams of Europe; the new Croton dam is larger than these three combined.

It has taken 14 years to construct this work and cost $7,700,000. In the labor of construction there has been a noticably small loss of life compared with other undertakings of this kind. Some men were killed by premature explosions and there were a few other accidents; but, Mr. Coleman, the chief of the firm of contractors which built the dam, says there has been less loss of life in the work on the Croton dam than on any other similar work in the history of such operations. Once the work was retarded a short time by a strike, and for three weeks the Seventh regiment was kept busy at the dam; but no other serious disturbance interfered.

Work was begun in the autumn of 1892 and on March 10 of the present year the workmen laid down their tools, the dam was finished. A trip over the construction railroad was made by Mr. Coleman, the engineers on the work, and the Catholic priest who had had charge of the two chapels built for the workmen, then the rails were torn up and all signs of the work of construction removed as quickly as possible.

The great stretch of land below the new dam belongs to the city, and this has been graded and will be made into table appeared in the New York World.

It is comparatively recently masonry dams of notable size have been constructed, they are a feature of the development of modern engineering. In the sixteenth century there were in existence masonry dams of great height, but only in the last half of the nineteenth century were they designed in accordance with the great principles of engineering, maximum strength with minimum of material and cost. In masonry dams the danger to be guarded against is crushing. There is the pressure of the height of water behind the dam to be met by sufficient resistance and the crashing of ice when the spring floods come. In the new Croton dam, which is the climax of masonry dams, the most famous engineers have handled these problems. "While the steps of stone below the spillway top are rough and uneven, the work there is, if anything, more carefully done than in the main a public park. When the city obtained possession of the tract covered by the dam and lake, many roads and bridges had to be done away with. These have been replaced by the construction of 36 miles of macadamized road along the shores of the lake.

Where the Croton was once but a narrow river, its character has been so changed it becomes a great lake, 2,400 feet across at the dam breast, filling the valley behind it for nearly 20 miles and spreading at Hunter's Brook to an extreme width of two miles. Three miles from the new dam is the old Croton dam, once regarded as a wonderful structure, when the waters have risen to the top of the new dam the top of the old Croton dam will be 33 feet below the surface."

The new dam is divided into three sections. The main dam extends 1,400 feet from the south side of Croton valley to a point where spillway and bridge span begin. The spillway, which curves away to the eastward, is 1,000 feet in length. A steel arch bridge 200 feet long follows the straight line of the main dam, and over this and the top of the main dam is a highway 21 feet wide. After the water passes the spillway it flows under the bridge. Water that has risen to the top of the spillway will be 16 feet below the level of the highway. The depth of water in the dam will be 160 feet.

When New York undertook the construction of a new dam considerable time was spent in the vitally important matter of selection of a site. At first a site a mile and an eighth farther down stream was chosen, but no construction was ever begun at this point. Borings were made all over the valley before final decision was made and work began. It was found necessary to penetrate to the solid rock for a foundation, and not until a depth of 85 feet was solid rock reached. On this firm foundation has been reared "the most enormous piece of masonry in the world. It is 2,400 feet long from the south end of the main dam to the north end of the spillway. At its base it is 216 feet thick, and this tapers toward the top, where it is ten feet across at the top of the main dam. The slope of the inner wall is very slight." That the reader may have some appreciation of the size of the new dam, we reproduce well summarized information concerning the stupendous engineering feat. The dam. The rough steps are made of great blocks of stone from two to five tons in weight, and they are joined with the finest precision. When the floods of early spring bring a great volume of water over the dam, it will be full of ice, giant blocks many tons in weight, which must be crushed as they drop from step to step below. To meet their shock and to reduce them to powder the big stone blocks were put in the face of the spillway."

The layman is perhaps better able to appreciate in some small degree the skill required, the care necessary, in construction of such a work as the Croton dam, by glancing at great works built elsewhere that have proved in some vital point weak, inadequate.

In looking over the subject of dam building and the great dams of the world, the writer comes upon the chronicle of what is spoken of as "dam failures;" learns that the common causes of failure are, sliding on the base or on some horizontal joint; overturning; fracture due to tension; crushing, in the case of masonry dams; and, rarely, the breaking up and washing away from the top downward. The most disastrous reservoir failure of recent days, was that generally alluded to as the Johnstown flood, when 2,000 people lost their lives and between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 worth of property was destroyed. The South Fork dam, an earth dam built about three miles above Johnstown, was carried away, and the reservoir emptied itself in about 45 minutes. The failure here was an insufficient wasteway. The original specifications for the dam called for a waterway 150 feet wide; at the time of the disaster the way was but 130 feet in width.

In 1890 the Walnut Grove dam in Arizona, one of the highest rock-fill dams ever built, failed, and many lives were lost thereby. An inadequate spillway is thought to have caused this disaster. The Walnut Grove dam was 110 feet in height, about ten feet thick at the top, 140 feet at the base. Granite blocks composed both faces, the dry-face walls 20 feet thick at the base and five at the top. A very heavy rainfall and the inadequate spillway worked the ruin. Defective foundation and a very heavy rainfall lasting several days, caused the failure of the dam on the Colorado river at Austin, Texas, which occurred in April, 1900.

WHERE DEEPEST LOVE ABIDES.

God's Goodness Chiefly Felt by Those in Tribulation.

Where is it that God, in His searching of the hearts of His children, hears the tones of the deepest love, and sees on the uplifted face the light of the most heartfelt gratitude? Not where His gifts are most profuse, but where they seem most meager; not where the suppliant's worship glides forth from the cushion of luxury through lips saturated with plenty and rounded by health; not within the halls of successful ambition, or even the dwellings of unbroken domestic peace; but where the outcast, flying from persecution, kneels in the evening on the rock whereon he sleeps; by the fresh grave, where, as the earth is opened, heaven in answer opens too; by the pillow of the wasted sufferer, where the sunken eye, denied sleep, converses with a silent star, and the hollow voice enumerates in low prayer the scanty list of comforts and the shortened tale of hopes. —Martineau.

HOARSE COUGHS STUFFY COLDS

QUICKLY CURED BY

Foley's Honey and Tar

There is no case on record of a cold resulting in Pneumonia, or other serious lung trouble, after Foley's Honey and Tar had been taken.

It will cure the most obstinate racking cough, and heals and strengthens the lungs.

Foley's Honey and Tar has cured many cases of incipient Consumption and even in the last stages will always give comfort and relief.

Foley's Honey and Tar gives quick relief to Asthma sufferers, as it relieves the difficult breathing at once.

Remember the name—Foley's Honey and Tar—and refuse substitutes that cost you the same as the genuine. Do not take chances with some unknown preparation.

Contains no opiates.

Cured of Terrible Cough on Lungs.

J. Jackson of Danville, Ill., writes: "My daughter had a severe attack of La Grippe and a terrible cough on her lungs. We tried a great many remedies without relief. She tried Foley's Honey and Tar, which cured her. She has never been troubled with a cough since."

Consumption Cured.

Foley & Co., Chicago. Dana, Ind.

Gentlemen:—Foley's Honey and Tar cured me of Consumption after I had suffered two years and was almost desperate. Three physicians failed to give me any relief and the last one said he could do me no good. I tried almost every medicine I heard tell of without benefit until Foley's Honey and Tar was recommended to me. Its effect right from the start was magical. I improved steadily from the first dose and am now sound and well, and think Foley's Honey and Tar is a God-send to people with Throat and Lung Trouble. Yours very truly,

MRS. MARY AMBROSE.

Three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00.

The 50 cent size contains two and one-half times as much as the small size and the $1.00 bottle almost six times as much.

FACTS IN NATURE.

Not Only Do We Get Inspiration From Nature, But Health as Well.

For people who are run-down and nervous, who suffer from indigestion or dyspepsia, headache, biliousness, or torpid liver, coated tongue with bitter taste in the morning and poor appetite, it becomes necessary to turn to some tonic or strengthener which will assist Nature and help them to get on their feet and put the body into its proper condition. It is becoming more and more apparent that Nature's most valuable health-giving elements are to be found in forest plants and roots.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. R. V. Pierce, then consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., discovered that by scientifically extracting and combining certain medicinal principles from native roots, taken from our American forests, he could produce a medicine which was marvelously efficient in curing cases of blood disorder and liver and stomach trouble as well as many other chronic, or lingering ailments. This concentrated extract of Nature's vitality he named "Golden Medical Discovery." It purifies the blood by putting the stomach and liver in a healthy condition, thereby helping the digestion and assimilation of food which feeds the blood. Thereby it cures weak stomach, indigestion, torpid liver, or biliousness, and kindred derangements.

If you have coated tongue, with bitter or bad taste in the morning, frequent headaches, feel weak, easily tired, stitches or pain in side, back gives out easily and aches, belching of gas, constipation, or irregular bowels, feel flashes of heat alternating with chilly sensations or kindred symptoms, they point to derangement of your stomach, liver and kidneys.

Use the "Golden Medical Discovery" and correct more speedily and permanently than any other known agent. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed in plain English on wrapper.

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make a little more profit. He gains; you lose. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One laxative; two or three are cathartic.

CURES SICK-HEADACHE

Tablets and powders advertised as cures for sick-headache are generally harmful and they do not cure but only deaden the pain by putting the nerves to sleep for a short time through the use of morphine or cocaine.

Lane's Family Medicine

the tonic-laxative, cures sick-headache, not merely stops it for an hour or two. It removes the cause of headache and keeps it away.

SKIN ERUPTIONS 35 YEARS.

Suffered Severely with Eczema All Over Body—A Thousand Thanks to Cuticura Remedies.

"For over thirty-five years I was a severe sufferer from eczema. The eruption was not confined to any one place. It was all over my body, limbs, and even on my head. I am sixty years old and an old soldier, and have been examined by the Government Board over fifteen times, and they said there was no cure for me. I have taken all kinds of medicine and have spent large sums of money for doctors, without avail. A short time ago I decided to try the Cuticura Remedies, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, two treatments in all, I am now well and completely cured. A thousand thanks to Cuticura. I cannot speak too highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John T. Roach, Richmondale, Ross Co., Ohio, July 17, 1905."

England's Oldest Peer.

The only living peer who was a member of the house of lords at the time of Queen Victoria's accession is Lord Nelson. He succeeded to the earldom in 1835. Lord Nelson is not a direct descendant of the hero of Trafalgar, but is only collaterally descended from Horatio Nelson's sister, Mrs. Bolton. He enjoys a good estate and a pension of £5,000 granted to the first Lord Nelson and his heirs.

Cheering Thought.

The cook came to the professor to report that the cabbage he had ordered for dinner was all right in the center, but she had had to throw nearly all the rest of it away.

"Ah, well," said the professor, "let us make the best of it. Its errors are of the head rather than of the heart."

Reservation Opening.

The Passenger Department of the Chicago and North Western Railway announces that the opening of the Wind River or Shoshone Reservation for public lands in Wyoming has been postponed until Aug. 15, 1906, by joint resolution of congress.

Railroad construction to the Reservation border is being pushed rapidly, and will probably be completed within a few weeks.

Non Est.

The lawyer was trying to impeach one of the witnesses for the other side.

"I will ask you, Mr. Spurling," he said, addressing the first man whom he had called, "if you are acquainted with Benjamin Bobsleds, who testified in this case an hour or two ago?"

"Yes sir," answered the witness.

"How long have you known him?"

"Ever since he was a boy."

"I will ask you further, if you are acquainted with his reputation for truth and veracity in the neighborhood in which he resides?"

"Gosh, no! He hain't got any."

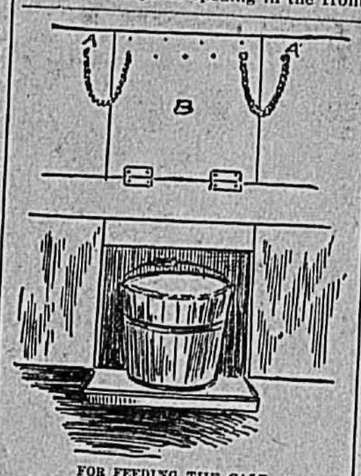
FARMS AND FARMERS

Feeding the Calf Easily.

The calf is a stubborn little thing and is quite averse to being taken from its mother, so that, oftentimes, the problem of feeding it is not the easiest one in the world to solve. Any arrangement which will do the work readily is warranted and one of the best plans we know of can be evolved from the following: Keep the calf in a pen of some kind with a solid front. Then cut a square opening in the front just big enough to receive the feed pail. Hinge the piece that is cut out to swing in. Then put chains, ropes and straps to the side of the openings and attach to the cut out portion by means of staples. The chain must be just long enough to allow the cut-out section (B) to drop down level as shown in the lower part of the cut, although the chains do not show in this part of the illustration. A cleat is nailed on the outer edge of the cut-out portion (B) and another on the outside of top edge of opening. The pail is set in position from the outside and the cleat at the top of opening and outer edge of cut-out portion prevents the pail from being overturned or the contents from spilling out. This plan does away with the annoyance of trying to set a pail full of milk over into the pen of a hungry calf who, in his haste, usually knocks it out of the hands of the feeder.



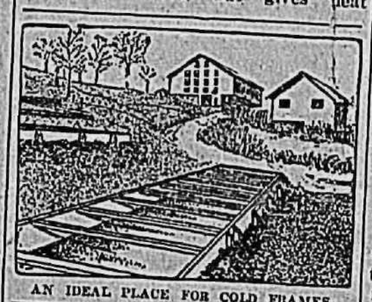
FOR FEEDING THE CALF.

Cold Frame for Vegetables.

No market gardener could do without cold frames and conduct his business profitably. For extra early vegetables and extra-late ones they are equally necessary. Then, too, they are such a help in the way of giving many kinds of hotbed plants a good growth. But, useful as they are, cold frames are seldom used in private gardens, except of the rich. Yet they are not expensive and are very easy to make.

The best place for a cold frame is on the south side of a hill. There, protected from the cold north winds, the plants get the full heat of the sun and make great growth long before it is at all possible to grow them in the open.

To make a cheap cold frame all that is needed are a few boards, and, in the absence of sash, a frame covered with well-oiled cotton cloth. This protects from rain and from moderate cold. Extreme cold would have to be shut out by covering with carpet, an old blanket or hay, straw or any other light material that makes good cover. The sun does not shine with full force through the cloth, but gives heat enough for most plants. In the illustration, the cold frame of Professor R. L. Watts is an ideal place to force a rapid growth.



AN IDEAL PLACE FOR COLD FRAMES.

Self-Binder Run on Skids.

A Minnesota farmer writes: Farmers on the Minnesota side in the Red River Valley tried a new scheme in harvesting grain last season. Excessive rains just before and during the harvest season so flooded the grain fields that it was impossible to get into them with the binder on wheels. The grain stood up all right, as it does in that country, but the ground was too soft to enable the binder to do its work. Some genius conceived the idea of putting the binder on skids, putting on horses enough to pull it through sled fashion, meanwhile running the binding machinery with a small gasoline engine. A large acreage of grain was cut in this way and saved which would otherwise have been a total loss.

Well Drained Soil for Fruit Trees.

Even the plum, which will stand more wet than any other class with the possible exception of the quince, requires that the soil be well drained; there is a difference between a moist soil and a wet soil, and a soil may be well drained yet be moist. It is next to impossible to expect adequate results for time and labor expended in raising fruit in orchards unless the soil is placed in proper condition. No fruit tree will thrive on soil that is wet, whether the wet be on the surface or beneath it. Any soil with depth enough to supply fertility to the tree roots will grow fruit trees, for even if it is not rich enough it can be made so provided it is not so sandy that the fertilizer goes beyond the reach of the roots or so wet that the roots rot instead of grow. The wet soil can be subdued by draining and the sandy soil put in proper condition by stable manure or by growing any crop which will supply humus and plowing such crop under.

Cut Down the Acreage.

Farm labor is growing scarcer each year; it is almost impossible to keep the boys on the farm and equally impossible to obtain labor from the cities that is of any use on the farm. Some of the poor men in the great cities would be infinitely better off in the country where they and their children might gain health and vigor, but it is next to impossible to keep them on the farm even if one gets them there, for they prefer the crowded tenements to the little cottage in the country.

Every employing farmer will testify that this is the truth. The alternative then seems to be a reduction of acreage and more care and fertilizer given to the portion cultivated; in other words, special crops and intensive culture. Poultry raising offers one avenue of escape from the no-labor question, up to a certain limit. Small fruit culture another in sections where women and children may be had to pick the fruit.

After these one must get down to the growing of crops which he can handle by himself, aiming to get quality and quantity from a small area. In some sections farmers are combining and, under an agreement, are turning certain portions of their farms into crops best suited to them, hay when possible, and each helps the other during harvest, the period when the lack of help is most felt. Look into the question of reducing the area seriously; it is worth considering before giving up farming as many are doing yearly.

Prize Yearling Merino Ram.

This yearling Merino ram, owned by Uriah Cook of Union County, Ohio, won first prize at the Indiana State Fair, and also at the 1905 Illinois State Fair. His dam was first prize and champion winner at some of the leading fairs in the country, and his sire produced many noted rams, a number of which were sold in South Africa. At the time this picture was taken the ram was a little over 20 months old and his weight was 150 pounds. He was fed a mixed ration of corn, oats and bran once or twice a day and run on bluegrass pasture in the summer and plenty of good clover hay in the winter, and was housed from storms.

YEARLING MERINO RAM.

Pumpkins in the Corn.

Those who have stock on the farm, cows, sheep, swine or poultry, will find the old-time plan of planting pumpkin seeds among the corn a good one to hold on to, provided they will harvest the pumpkins carefully, store them as carefully and feed them to the stock during the winter. Pumpkins are readily kept through the winter, and by watching them carefully and using the specked ones first, they will go through the winter and supply the stock with a much needed variety. They can be fed to advantage to all of the stock named, only being careful in feeding to poultry to chop the pieces finely after removing the skin. The pieces seem to be particularly enjoyed by the fowls when mixed with meat scraps, and the whole mixed with bran and moistened with skimmed milk fed quite warm.

Good Chicken Food Mixture.

A good chicken food mixture is composed of the following: Six pounds of cracked wheat, two pounds of cracked corn (fine), one pound of rolled oats or pin-head oatmeal, one pound of millet seed, one-half pound of broken rice, two pounds of fine granulated beef scrap, one-half pound of granulated bone and six pounds of pearl grit.

Whenever a farmer arrives at the place where he feels that there is no more for him to learn it is conclusive evidence that he has not begun to learn. When I was sixteen years old I thought I knew more than my father, and actually felt sorry for him. Now, that the numerals have become almost transposed (sixty-one) I am at least willing to conclude that he knew something.

Sheep will eat brush and weeds when they can get no better roughage, and when they acquire this habit they persist in it and do well.

The whole point of a kitchen garden is this: You get better things than money can buy—fresher vegetables, better kinds.

Women in Our Hospitals

Appalling Increases in the Number of Operations Performed Each Year—How Women May Avoid Them.

Going through the hospitals in our large cities one is surprised to find such a large proportion of the patients lying on those snow-white beds women and girls, who are either awaiting or recovering from serious operations.

Why should this be the case? Simply because they have neglected themselves. Female troubles are certainly on the increase among the women of this country—they creep upon them unawares, but every one of those patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, pain at left or right of the abdomen, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the organs or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the female organs, and if not heeded the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation. When these symptoms manifest themselves, do not drag along until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an operation—but remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved thousands of women from surgical operations.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

The following letters cannot fail to bring hope to despairing women.

Miss Ruby Mushrush, of East Chicago, Ind., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been a great sufferer with irregular periods and female trouble, and about three months ago the doctor, after using the X-Ray on me, said I had an abcess and would have to have an operation. My mother wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and it not only saved me from an operation but made me entirely well."

Mrs. Alice Berryhill, of 313 Boyce Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Three years ago life looked dark to me. I had ulceration and inflammation of the female organs and was in a serious condition.

"My health was completely broken down and the doctor told me that if I was not operated upon I would die within six months. I told him I would have no operation but would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He tried to influence me against it but I sent for the medicine that same day and began to use it faithfully. Within five days I felt relief but was not entirely cured until I used it for some time.

"Your medicine is certainly fine. I have induced several friends and neighbors to take it and I know more than a dozen who had female troubles and who to-day are as well and strong as I am from using your Vegetable Compound."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Makes a Difference.

Dwellers in apartment houses sometimes seem to forget that conversations in the entrance halls may be overheard by other tenants. This was the greeting which a belated husband received at the door of his apartment recently:

"Don't talk to me! I know very well what you would say! But I know—you have been off playing poker and lost all your money!"

"No, I didn't, my dear; I won twenty dollars," was the conciliating answer.

The other voice suddenly modulated.

"Well, perhaps after all we women are a little too severe—a man should have a little recreation now and then."

A PRECARIOUS CONDITION.

Many Women Suffer Daily Miseries and Don't Know the Reason.

Women who are languid, suffer backache and dizzy spells, should read carefully, the experience of Mrs. Laura Sullivan, Bluff and Third Sts., Marquette Mich., who says: "I had backache and bearing-down pain, and at times my limbs would swell to twice natural size. I could hardly get up or down stairs, and often could not get my shoes on. Beginning to use Doan's Kidney Pills I got relief before I had used half a box, but continued taking them until cured. The bloating subsided and I was well again."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Total Failure.

Mr. Ferguson was in a high state of indignation.

"Laura," he said, "what have you been doing to my new safety razor? It's ruined!"

"I didn't know it was a razor, George," answered Mrs. Ferguson. "Norah tried for half an hour to slice potatoes with it, and then gave it up. She says it's of no account."

Pleasant for Mr. Paint.

John Bassett Moore, professor of diplomacy at Columbia university, desired in a lecture to give an example of undiplomatic conduct.

"I was at a studio tea," he said, "when a lady approached our host and cried:

"'Mr. Paint, yours were the only pictures I looked at in the exhibition.'

"Paint bowed and smiled delightedly.

"'Believe me, madam,' he said, 'I appreciate the honor.'

"But she gave a little stare of perplexity.

"'Honor?' she said. 'The others, you know, were so surrounded by the crowd.'"

Mistake in Burial.

An extraordinary burial mistake is reported from Liverpool. Two infants, from different parents, were taken to a hospital suffering from fever. One died and was buried; the other recovered and was handed to its supposed mother. She, however, found that the child was not hers, and inquiries showed that it was her baby which was dead, and that the living child belonged to the other woman. An affecting scene occurred between the two woman when the truth came to light.—London Daily Mail.

PATTI'S APPEARANCE IN 1859.

Her First Role in Opera Was Played in That Year With Success.

The season of 1859 was remarkable for the first appearance in opera of Adelina Patti. This new and youthful prima donna, the youngest daughter of Catalina Barili, under the direction of her kinsman and master, Maurice Strakosch, came forward at the New York Academy of Music Nov. 24 in the title role of "Lucia di Lammermoor." She was then but 16 years old, but had already learned to manage her voice, a flutelike, flexible soprano, with extraordinary skill and taste, and capable critics at once recognized in the debutante "one of those rare singers who appear at long intervals on the musical horizon, to revive not only the hopes of managers but the enthusiasm of the public." This prediction had quick fulfillment. After a short initial engagement in Philadelphia Mlle. Patti, piloted by Strakosch, embarked on a concert tour which ended at New Orleans, whence she sailed for London, where she may be said to have fairly begun a career which, like her art, must long remain in lyric annals. Thereafter for upward of forty years she held first place, and during the greater part of that time she was not only a sweeter but a better singer than any other woman in the world. Her name lends a golden ending to any record of the early days of opera in America.—Lippincott's.

Wear Artificial Eyebrows.

"Artificial eyebrows have been made occasionally for years past," said a wellknown wig maker, "but lately they have grown very popular. A face without eyebrows lacks expression or character, and many women realize this. Others, having lost the eyebrows through fire or sickness, wear artificial eyebrows until the new ones appear. Others, again, wear artificial eyebrows for a time, only to become tired of and reject them.

"A well-made artificial eyebrow will escape detection, as a rule, but such an eyebrow is too delicate to stand rough usage, and soon wears out or becomes unsightly. Many people grow weary of the recurrent necessity and expense of replacement. But the pretty woman who once wears artificial eyebrows, like the man half of whose mustache has been destroyed in some manner, finds a real friend in the artificial eyebrow."

The artificial eyebrow originated in Paris, the home of artificial beauty adjuncts, and, it is stated, they are more popular among women than men.

Maltese Lace.

All genuine maltese lace is handmade, and the inhabitants of the islands are strongly opposed to any form of labor-saving machinery. The industry is almost exclusively confined to women and girls, and many families have special designs that are handed down from one generation to another. Two or three firms practically control the output of the islands. Most of the lace exported is made on the island of Gozo. Silk and cotton are the materials used. The demand in America for this work is becoming greater every year.

Breathe Through the Nose.

The sense of smell has been considered so exclusively the sole function of the nose that if any child were asked "What is your nose for?" and it were to answer "To breathe with," the reply would create great astonishment. Yet this is undoubtedly the primary function of the nose, and all inspired air should pass through it.

TIRE ALMOST CAUSED TRAGED

Exciting Experience of Automobilis at a Jain Temple.

A thrilling story of how the sid slipping of a motor car nearly resulte in a man being roasted alive is told b Ernest Esdale, says Motoring Illus trated. The incident occurred in Duh lia, a village on the road from Delh to Bombay. The car was being driven slowly past a Jain temple, amid the whooping of natives and the beating of tom-toms.

"At the temple entrance," writes Mr. Esdale, "stood two priests, regarding us with no friendly visage. Bang! And our back tire had burst—a deep rut in the road has caught the wheel, too. In a moment we swerve around, and, horror! Smash right into the temple door. Alas, we have committed sacrilege of the worst kind.

"We set to work to repair the tire and just as we had finished a heartrending, ear-piercing shriek rings out from the temple inclosure. We rush in, brushing aside two juvenile priests, who try to stop our progress. A crowd of white-robed priests stand between us and the inner sanctuary. But the three of us are old football players; the priests are down like ninepins.

"We tear the curtain aside and stand for a moment rooted with horror. There on a rude altar our poor native motor boy is being literally roasted alive. Only a second's pause to take in the situation and with a rush we are on them.

"Seizing the uplifted knife from the nearest fanatic, we cut the leather strings and lift the fainting sacrifice from the altar. Then we beat the priests off, regain our car and ride away amid a shower of missiles."

"Old Bill" Thurston's Tip.

Old Bill Thurston, as he is generally alluded to, of Melvin Village, N. H., spends every evening at the general store and postoffice, where the news of the day is discussed. A recent rear-end collision was the topic one evening, and a number of village orators had waxed warm on the subject. Finally "Bill," who had taken no part in the discussion, but who was intensely interested, spoke up and said: "Why don't they do away with the bloody rear cars, anyway; then they won't 'ave no haccidents!"

Makes Him Think of Home.

When the first Turkish minister, Mele Mele, came to Washington a grand ball was planned in his honor. Hundreds of invitations were sent out and nearly everybody who received one came, for there was much curiosity to see the important Turk in his native dress.

Particularly were persons anxious to examine the splendid dress turban which had been described and talked about, made, as it as, of plaster of Paris, yet looking like the finest muslin.

When the evening arrived Mele Mele seemed to be the only one who was not having a good time. He stood around as if he did not know that everybody was admiring him and seemed very much bored till suddenly he caught a glimpse of a big fat woman who was assisting in serving the supper.

Instantly he rushed up to her and flung his arms about her neck and gave a good kiss, explaining that he could not help it, she reminded him so much of his best and most expensive wife, and while the company thought it a very odd thing to do everybody could understand that he was a homesick man and nobody minded it in the least.

Metallizes Embroideries.

A artist of Brussels devoted his attention especially to metallizing embroidery, and created wonderful effects. Until quite recently they could not be made of practical value, and only the beginning has been made by an invention, the details of which are kept secret. A stock company has been formed for its exploitation. According to the Paris Cosmos, the company has created a sensation with the products.
